

HEPATITIS B MADE EASY

WHY IS HEPATITIS B IMPORTANT?

More than 225,000 people in Australia are living with hepatitis B.

Only about 60% of these are aware that they have it. The majority of people living with hep B in Australia come from culturally & linguistically diverse communities.

People living with hep B often do not experience symptoms until serious liver disease develops. If left untreated it can lead to cirrhosis, liver failure & liver cancer.

Good medical management prevents most complications. We need to support people to get tested & engage in health care.

HEPATITIS B MADE EASY is for community & health workers to:

Increase understanding of basic facts about testing, transmission & treatment.

Increase knowledge on how to deliver appropriate health literate & culturally competent care to people affected by hep B.

Learn about resources and websites that assist workers & affected communities to seek help.
